

Watering Plants- Part II

Spring Time is here and that means checking on your indoor plants, trimming them, "fertilizing,
" and all the TLC that's needed for your indoor babies. All plants vary with their watering depending on the type of soil they have, size of the containers, type of plant, and location in your home. Why location you might say? Well, if the plant receives a lot of light it will need more water because it's evaporating faster and the opposite will be if the plant is located in a cooler shaded area.
